

Internet Access--Information for Families

Name	Description
Altice Customers	For households with K-12 and/or college students who may be displaced due to school closures and who do not currently have home internet access, Altice is offering Altice Advantage Internet solution for free for 60 days to any new customer household within their footprint.
CenturyLink Lifeline	CenturyLink provides qualifying low-income customers the access to two support programs as part of the Federal Communication Commission's Lifeline program. More information is available on Century Link's "Lifeline" webpage .
Comcast Customers	Comcast is offering free access to its network for 60 days. Individual households can sign up online. After the 60-day period ends, the cost will be $9.99/month. Additionally, Comcast has opened up all of its hotspots to anyone in need. Students may check to see if they are in the range of Xfinity WiFi hotspots .
EveryoneOn	A low-cost internet service programs tool kit for K-12 districts and schools across the country to learn about low-cost internet programs that can be shared with students and families.
Federal Communications Commission Lifeline program	Lifeline is a federal program that lowers the monthly cost of phone and internet. Eligible customers will get up to $9.25 toward their bill. Customers can only use Lifeline for either phone or internet, but not both. Find a company for Lifeline .
Spectrum Internet Assist	Spectrum Internet Assist provides discounted pricing for households in which one or more members receive assistance as part of the National School Lunch Program (NSLP).

Verizon Lifeline Discount Program	Verizon offers internet access to disadvantaged students as part of the Federal Communication Communication’s Lifeline program, which lowers the monthly cost of phone or internet service for qualifying families. Information can be found on Verizon’s “Low-income Internet” webpage .
Xfinity Essentials	Internet Essentials is a program for families and other low-income households who currently do not subscribe to the internet at home. Application and other information are available on the Internet Essentials website .